The screenshot displays a software interface with several data tables. The 'Range Comparison' table is the primary focus, showing three columns of data. A red box highlights the cell containing '0.1' in the first column of this table. Below the tables, there is a large numerical table with columns labeled '0.1', '0.2', and '0.3'. The '0.1' column contains values 4.0, 4.3, 4.5, 4.8, 4.9, and 4.9. The '0.2' column contains values 4.0, 4.3, 4.5, 4.8, 4.9, and 4.9. The '0.3' column contains values 4.0, 4.3, 4.5, 4.8, 4.9, and 4.9. At the bottom, there are several rows of data with columns labeled '0.1', '0.2', and '0.3', showing values like 4.0, 4.3, 4.5, 4.8, 4.9, and 4.9.
